The Consortium is an organization of academic health centers whose mission is (1) to write curriculum, develop guidelines and make recommendations to encourage the integration of coursework on integrative medicine into the curricula of a majority of U.S. medical schools, (2) to design internship and residency programs, develop guidelines and make recommendations to encourage the integration of instruction and training in integrative medicine into the internship and residency programs offered by U.S. teaching hospitals, (3) to set standards and make recommendations for the purpose of establishing more uniform qualification programs throughout the U.S. in the field of integrative medicine, (4) to contribute to standards and guidelines for and publicize continuing education programs in the field of integrative medicine, (5) to develop and promote an accreditation program for complementary and alternative care provided in U.S. hospitals, (6) to encourage and conduct peer review of emerging research in the field of integrative medicine, and hold colloquia on new scientific studies regarding various alternative medicine practices, and (7) to undertake and conduct such other projects, programs and activities as will encourage education and scientific research in the field of integrative medicine and raise the standard of care applicable to the provision of complementary and alternative medical care in the United States.

(a) As of the end of its fiscal year (September 30, 2007), the Consortium had 46 member organizations, all of which are highly esteemed academic medical centers. The Consortium is committed to sharing information and ideas, meeting challenges together in a process grounded in the values of Integrative Medicine, supporting member institutions and providing a national voice for integrative medicine. During this fiscal year, the Consortium held its annual membership meeting in the fall and a steering committee meeting in the spring. It will sponsor the next North American Research Conference on Complementary and Integrative Medicine in the spring of 2009.

The Consortium maintains a website that includes many resources for the public including answers to frequently asked questions regarding integrative medicine and a national listing of conferences and events involving integrative medicine. Additionally, the membership meets monthly via conference call and in person annually. At these meetings all of the Consortium's committees and working groups meet to share information and best practices with each other so that members can return to their respective schools and communities with those resources. These include the Clinical Care, Education, Policy and Research working groups as well as the executive and steering committees.

Part VIII

The conference registration fees reported on Part VII, Line 93a consist of the balance of registration fees received by the Consortium over funds expended in sponsoring the North American Research Conference on Complementary and Integrative Medicine that was held from May 25th to 28th, 2006. Over 600 people attended this conference that included 5 keynote addresses, 30 workshops, 12 plenary sessions comprised of 48 presentations, 4 poster sessions displaying over 200 posters, and a full day of pre-conference intensive workshops all focused on integrative medicine.

Membership dues and assessments reported on Part VII, Line 94 contribute to the accomplishment of the Consortium's exempt purpose because they substantially fund the Consortium's scientific studies, working group projects and the development of innovative educational programs that are essential to advocating an integrative model of healthcare incorporating mind, body and spirit. The $2,500 per member annual dues payment provides financial stability and autonomy to the Consortium, while it pursues additional public support. Criteria for membership, as set forth on the attached "Guidelines for Membership" found on the Consortium's website (www.imconsortium.org) mirror the eligibility requirements found in Article II of its original Bylaws. There are no tangible benefits provided in exchange for membership dues.
